Hongkons, August 20th 1909.

WE cannot attempt to predict what effect the new United States Tariff will have on the export trade of China. We have not, to start with, a complete copy of the new tariff, but the lengthy digest published in a Special Supplement of the London Times showing the percentage of increase or deenables us to see that while some of the most important lines of export from China | the whole work of revision." will be subject apparently to increased duties under the new measure, others benefit by the revision. The chief export from China to the United States is silk, which represents a value of something like twelve million taels a year, and we gather from tie digest alluded to that the increase on epun silk ranges from 15 per cent up to 94 cent for sewing silk, according to quality. Tea, which represents another big F. A. Hazeland at the Magistracy yesterday and item in the list of American imports from | fined $3 each. Chins, remains unaffected, and skins and hides, of which America takes a supply valued at something like five million taels a year, will be admitted on a duty which / shows 25 per cent reduction on the previous figure. Wool, which is another large export from China, representing in value about three million taels per annum, is not appreciably affected, but straw braid-and matting, which presumably come under the heading of "manufactures of straw, grass, Ac.," will bear a duty increased by 16 per cent. On the whole the influence of the tariff on the trade of China does not seem likely to be highly detrimental. The fundamental idea of the measure has been based on the essential principle of reducing import duties on the necessaries of life, and fostering American manufactures Try increasing the duties on articles of luxury and on products more economically man ufactured elsewhere than in the United Imports from China being largely of the nature of raw material and goods that cannot be produced in the United States therefore escape lightly.

A matter of importance to importers generally is the drastic provision of the new measure relating to invoices, methods of valuation, especially in relation to consigned merchandise, and the increased powers of the boards of appraisers. This amendment_occupies fifty pages in the Bill. and one of the writers who contribute to the Times Supplement says: "Those who are familiar with consular invoices will find acts all effects of perspiration, and is as | the new forms contain clauses which are inrefreshing and invigorating to the system | tended to check almost every discovered method of avoiding the payment of just duties that long experience with tariffs has evolved." A good deal of anxiety seems to have been created abroad, and it may be shared even in Hongkong and Caina, by the following provision which defines the actual market value of an article :-

The actual market value or wholesale price, as defined by law, of any imported merchandise which is consigned for sale in the United States, or which is sold for exportation to the United States, and which is not actually sold or freely offered for sale in usual wholesale quantities in the open market of the country of exportation to all purchasers, shall not in any case be ap praised at less than the wholesale price at which such or similar imported merchandise is actually sold or freely offered for sale in usual wholesale quantities in the United States in the open market, due allowance by deduction being made for estimated duties thereon, cost of transportation, insurance, and other necessary expenses from the place of shipment to the place of delivery, and a commission not exceeding 6 per centum, if any, has been paid or contracted to This provision would seem to bear, for instance, on the matting import from China, which has notoriously given the Customs authorities in the United States a good deal of trouble in this connection, because of attempts being made to evade payment of the proper duties on the most expensive grades. This provision gets over the diffi milty and will serve to effect a prompt settlement of such disputes. The President is authorized to appoint a board of nine general appraisers of merchandise, the salary of each to be $9,000 (£1,800) per annum, who shall possess all the powers of a Circuit Court of the United States. To these general appraisers all cases of dissatisfaction with the amount and rates of duties levied by the appraisers and assistant appraisers at the various ports will be referred. This board will exercise both judicial and inquisitorial functions. Appeal must be made by the importers to this board within 15 days, or the original duties and charges will stand. Then there will be a new Court for Customs Appeals only, and after its organisation no appeal will be taken or allowed to any other Court, and the decision of the United States Court of Customs Appeals will be final.

The new tariff is very unpopular on the continent of Europe, notably in France and Germany, and there are many who predict a tariff war with these countries. The New York correspondent of the Times. referring to these predictions, remarks: Doubtless the United States is better equipped in such a war than either. Moreover, she can always fall back on her greatest market, the British. If Great Congress might have been more careful in crease in the tariffon the principal imports | lying thought that no trouble can come from that quarter undoubtedly influenced lay any papers in addition to Cd. 4646. Evidently, American politicians and business men refuse to believe in the early success of the Tariff Reform movement in England.

> The s.s. Bourbon, which arrived in port yesterday, landed forty deportees from Saigon.

The police raided 23, Chung Ching Street, West Point, on Wednesday night and arrested 23 natives who were taking part in a gambling, and over the S. part of the China Sea. game. The offenders were charged before Mr.

A native was charged before M. F. A. Hazeland at the Magistracy yesterday with stealing ! three jackets and $1.29 in cash from an opium divan in Queen's Road West, and also with returning from banishment. On the first charge the defendant was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and six hours' stocks, and on the second he was sentenced to a further term of six months' imprisonment and six hours' stocks.

A Chinese woman was charged before Mr. TELEGRAMS. with being in unlawful possession of 251 tacls. of dross opium. The drag was discovered concealed in a bucket under some pig-wash. His Worship imposed a fine of $128, the alternative being three months' imprisonment.

Two prosecutions for infringing the exclusive rights of the Postmaster-General by bringing unstamped letters into the Colony were heard by Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistracy yesterday, when Sergeant Wilson presecuted. The first charge was against the compradors of the s.s. Tak Hing, who was defended by Mr. P. Sydenham Dixon (of Mr. R. A. Harding's men, headed by Baron Shibusawa, office). Mr. Dixon raised the defence that the left on the "Minnesota" on a visit to defendant did not know the letters were on board until he found them in his room. His Worship recorded a conviction and imposed a fine of $25. Chambers of Commerce. A similar fine was imposed upon a farmer from Canton who brought letters into the Colony by the s.s. Hoi Tung.

The case in which four natives were charged before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistracy with stealing four cases of opium from the a.s. Kut Sang was again mentioned yesterday. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton (of Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Descon) prosecuted, Mr. Crowther Smith (of Messrs. Almada and Smith) appeared for the first and fourth defendants, Mr. F. C. Barlow (of Messrs. Goldring, Barlow and Morrell) appeared for the second, while the third accused was undefended. Portion of the evidence was heard, and the case was again adjourned. We understand that a special session of the Criminal Court will be called to decide the case when the Kut So y again arrives in port.

STOLEN PROPERTY.

Two reports were made to the police yesterday by residents that thieves had entered their dwellings in their absence and taken away numerous belongings. Mr. Munro, a missionary who resides in Shanghai Street, told the police that between the 16th ultimo and the 19th instant an American travelling trunk containing $10 worth of religious books was stolen from the mission hall. The other victim was Mr. A. Ritchie, shipchardler, who also interests. He did not know of a case resides in Shanghai Street. His story was that between the 16th and 18th instant some person entered his house and departed with two gold scarf pins, one of which was set with gold quartz; one masonic silver scarf pin set with brilliants, four finger rings, four gold studs, two pairs of sleeve links, two rolled gold American stude (trowel pattern), two other gold studs, a silver bangle, a pair of gold sleeve buttons and a white-handled razor. The value of these articles Mr. Ritchie places at 381.

A DOMESTIC SQUABBLE SETTLED.

Two young Chinese women appeared before Mr. F. A. Hazeland at the Magistracy yesterday on the charge of attempting to commit suicide. One was stated to be the fifth concubine of a Chinese clerk, while the other defendant was a maid. According to the story told to the police the husband of the first defendant had ill-treated her, and had also suggested to the second that she should become his sixth concubine. Both women felt aggrieved, and decided to end their trouble by jumping over Blake Pier. Their first attempt to dive into the unknown was frustrated by an Indian police sergeant, who told them to return to their home. At they declined, however, and as they prepared for a second header into the sea the sergeant took them to the police station and charged them with attempted suicide. The case was adjourned pending the arrival of the master of the house, and evidently his explanation satisfied all parties, for the police withdrew the charge.

SIAM AND GREAT BRITAIN

In the House of Commons last month, Sir W Collins asked the Secretary for Foreign ffairs whether the Anglo-Siamess Treaty had been ratified; whether the suzerain rights of Siam over the State of Kedah had been formally taken over by the representatives of his Majesty's Government; whether the integrity. of the State of Kedah was secured under the treaty; and whether he would lay papers relating to communications which had passed in reference to the position of Kedah and the transfer of the suzerainty of that : tate from Siam to Great Britain.

Mr. McKinnon Wood (Glasgow, St. Rollox, Min.), who replied, said :- he Treaty was ratified on July 9, and the formal transfer has now been effected. The integrity of the State Britain possessed some means of defence, of Kedah is not affected by the new Treaty, Article 1 of which merely transfers to the British Government all rights of suzerainty, dealing with foreign countries. The under- protection, administration, and control over the transferred territories hitherto possessed by the Government of Siam. It is not proposed to

SUPREME COURT.

Thursday, 19th August.

IN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION. BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE (SIR F.

Piggott).

THE TAIKOO DOCKYARD MURDER. Only one case was set down for trial at the August session, Wong Yuk Sheung being indicted for the murder of a fellow-workman at Taikoo Dockyard on July 9th. Prisoner pleaded. not guilty. Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C., instructed by Mr. Dennys, conducted the case for the Crown, Mr. J. W. Orr, instructed by Mr. J. W. Gardiner, appearing for the defence, while Messrs. Goldring, Barlow and Morrell, attended in the interests of the relatives of the prisoner. The jury was empanelled as follows:-- Messra. C. W. Longuet (foreman), F. G. Carroll, A. E. McCallum, Ezra Abraham, C. H. Lyson, H. Pemberton, and G. A. Diss.

Mr. Lee d'Almada e Castro, from the office of

The Attorney-General stated that the deceased and the prisoner were fellow-workmen, and they were engaged on the ship Hangchow, then manslaughter we can consider it again. We in dock for repairs. The deceased and one of will be unanimous. the witnesses were working inside the cabin rivetting and the prisoner and another man who had disappeared were employed outside. your room and reconsider it. The deceased received a blow on his head which fractured his skull and caused his death some few hours later. There was no dispute between the Crown and the prisoner as to the fact that the deceased received a blow which caused his death. There was no dispute between the Crown and the prisoner that it was with that hammer that the blow was struck. wish. Nor was there any dispute that it was the prisoner who caused the blow, but the issue between the Crown and the prisoner was as to the manner in which the blow was struck and received. The prisoner in his defence before the Magistrate declared that while he was working outside the hammer fell from hig hands through the porthole and alighted on him-in other words, that it was a pure accident the head of the man working inside and injuring The Crown, however, asserted that the prisoner struck the man deliberately and that the prisoner left the side of the ship and was seen in the cabin with the deceased at the time he struck the deceased on the head. If the jury believed the witnesses for the Crown, they would find that the prisoner struck the deceased in the cabin with the hammer. If they accepted the statement of the prisoner that it was an accident, the man would not be liable to any consequences. But before they accepted the statement of the prisoner they would have to reject the positive testimony of two witnesses which the Crown would call, and in considering the evidence in support of the prisoner's statement he would have to draw their attention to a part of prisoner's evidence. given before the Magistrate to the effect that at the time of what he called the accident the man working with deceased outside had for some reason gone away. The practice was that if one rivetter went away work ceased, and if the jury came to the conclusion that what was usual took place—that work was stopped — then the fact that one rivetter was away would destroy the theory the prisoner that the hammer slipped through

Dr. Moore, assistant superintendent at the Government Civil Hospital, said the deceased was admitted to hospital with a fractured skull the bone of which was driven in. An operation to relieve the pressure and to arrest the hemorrhage was performed, but the deceased died shortly afterwards. He considered that it would require a fair blow with the hammer shown to have caused the injury he saw.

Cross-examined—He was not prepared to swear that the injury could not have been caused by the hammer falling from a height of four feet on the deceased man's head. He did not think the injury had been caused by a glancing blow.

His Lordship-(to the jury)-You can go. The Attorney-General-You can discharge the panel. I do not propose to proceed any further. I do not propose to present a further indictment The prisoner can be discharged. The prisoner was then discharged.

THE FINAL SCENE IN DHINGRA'S TRIAL.

PRISONER'S CALLOUSNESS.

To-day's telegrams announce the execution of Madar Lal Dhingra, the Indian student who murdered Sir William H. Curzon Wyllie and Dr. Lalcaca. A London contemporary describes the closing scene of the trial at the Old Bailey as follows :-- " Calm and callous, he stood in the dock at the Old Bailey and heard his death sentence. It was a painful exhibition on the part of one who had committed so great a crime. As the story of the terrible tragedy at the Imperial Institute was told, exciting the pity of listeners, the one man who was responsible for it all sat in the dock without displaying the slightest sign of remorse. Dhingra had not been in the court five minutes before he revealed the working of his mind. When called upon to plead he exclaimed: Whatever I did was an act of patriotism, which is justified."

And this was not the remark of an insane man; the demesnonr of the prisoner suggested a person of intelligence, but with a judgment sadly warped and a mind subtle and conceited. His last remark before he quitted the dock was: "I am proud to have the honour of laying down my life for the cause of my country. I don't

It was a pathetic trial, and the attempt of the prisoner to adopt the character of the hero was one of its saddest features. His attitude was out of harmony with the feelings of sympathy that had been kindled by the story told from the witness-box, and it was impossible to restrain the thought, as Dhingra quitted the dock, that behind that frigid exterior which

After the scorn of the prisoner the words of Mr. Tindal Atkinson, K. C., who appeared on behalf of Dhingra's family, came as a relief, He was certain the blow was struck with the and carried with them a little to balm injured the prisoner's family viewed the crime with the greatest abhorrence, and he added that there were no more loyal subjects in the Empire

And so a remarkable trial ended, having only occupied an hour and a half. Nothing occurred that could be described as sensational, the details of the murders given by the witnesses and the demeanour of the prisoner excited

AUSTRALIA'S SILVER COINAGE.

By the beginning of the year Australia will have a silver coinage of her own. For some time past negotiations have been conducted between the Imperial Mint authorities and the Commonwealth Government with respect to coining, and recently the Australian Governthe British authorities had agreed to undertake Sir Henry Berkeley having addressed the the task of coining for Australia. Under the agreement entered into the Imperial authorities are to supply the Commonwealth with the coins for a term of years for a price ing. The new coins are to be distinctly Australian. On one side will appear the head of the King, while the other will bear some Australian design. The intention of the Government is to have about £150,000 worth of coins struck off every year. These will be circulated in Australia, and about £100,000 worth of the old coins will be recalled annually, until they have all been withdrawn from circulation. The distribution of the new issue will be accomplished by the banks. The Australian Treasurer expects to realize £50,000 a year from the new system.

To teach the kindergarten system properly it is essential that a certificated kindergarten mistress shall be employed, for if incorrectly taught it might be detrimental to the child's interest and development.

Should it be desired, a preparatory or elementary school could be associated with the kindergarten, but, judging by the children at the Peak the latter is of the greatest importancewould therefore submit, sir, through the medium of your columns, that the Government should undertake to provide a school of the occasion to go to the Opera, or other places of character referred to without delay.

The school fees could be fixed so as to make a school very largely self-supporting, and a temporary engagement of a certificated mistress and temporary premises could be arranged for until something permanent can be done. In this manner the cost to the Government would be very small, no time would be lost in providing this very necessary facility, and the educational authorities could feel their way before entering on a more permanent scheme. In this letter the subject has been merely touched upon, but it is hoped that any others who are interested in children may write to you on the subject making any suggestions that may occur to them.-I am, Sir, etc.,

THE REVENUE QUESTION.

TO THE HDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."

Sir,-Judging by the correspondence in the local Press, the suggested increase of licence fees appears to be causing considerable interest. It is undoubtedly necessary for the Government to raise more revenue to meet the expenses of the Colony, and it is their duty to obtain same from sources which will least affect any particular section of the community.

Will this measure meet the case? From my point it will not. I am a householder and a consumer of wines and spirits; my neighbour is a tectotaler, and therefore I shall be paying part of his proportion for the upkeep of the Colony, and I suggest, to make it a just taxation, distribute it over the whole community by putting it on property.

I am surprised the Government have not the plack to put the necessary amount on the rates. but if there is any truth in what one hears outside, it would appear the strings are being pulled by our unofficial members on the Council. I hope this is not the case; still it is common

It would be interesting to know when the rates were last increased, also the additional revenue obtainable if raised 5 per cent.—Yours, &c., IMPARTIAL.

Mr. Latham is still weatherbound; otherwise he is quite ready to attempt flying across the Channel. No one feels more annoyed than he does at having to unavoidably disappoint so many people on both sides of the Channel as he does. Even in Paris, those to whom fine weather is everything remain indoors. There is no enjoyment in sitting in the open-air theatres or outside restaurants while the rain blows into one's face. All engagements are cancelled; society is patiently waiting for the clouds to roll by-if they ever will. It is a most unfortunate state of things for everybody.

THE NAVY The discussion in Parliament on the Nava Report has, so far, yielded nothing. As much was expected by all those familiar with French politics. According to the Gaulois. "The inquiry has sunk like a stone". Deputies and Senators belong to the same family, it remarks ; they know one another, they have studied each others' careers and can prove very dangerous opponents. Therefore, they do not attack one another. So the naval scandals are likely to sleep in the archives of the Rue Royale for want of a party strong enough and energetic enough to insist on reform. Meanwhile, the failure of Parliament to effect anything at all is more and more apparent. Questions of extraordinary importance have been before the sea. But there is the stone right enough in the Legislature, but they have resulted in nothing: Those questions include the revision of the Customs duties, an electoral reform bill, the reorganisation of the Navy, and the famous "Statut des Fonctionnaires", which regulates the position of civil servants. Of course these measures cannot possibly be voted before the breaking up for the summer vacation. In November next, when Parliament re-assembles, its whole time will be taken up with the voting of the trouble-

WORLD'S EIGHTH WONDER!

ASTOUNDING PROJECT.

Seldom in this twentieth century does one come across a personality and a place more curiously reminiscent of the middle ages than may be found any one of these days in the very heart of modern Brixton, whence has issued one of the most astounding projects of shop close to Brixton Station-just such an apothecary's shop as one could imagine Romeo visiting in Mantun-where one has hardly room to turn amongst old bottles and rusty keys, mysterious-looking boxes and presses. personality is Dr. George P. Sargent, once a physican with a good country practice in Essex, now an old man of 70 turning his hand to all sorts of strange pursuits.

Originally a Guy's man-M.D. of St. Andrew, and M.R.C.S. Eng.-he proclaims himself physician, surgeon, accoucheur, dentist, apothecary, house and estate agent, insurance agent, and vendor of proprietary articles. Indeed. packages representing various curiously-titled blends of coffee, cocoa, sugar, malt and hops, jostle the cases of false teeth and other paraphernalis of the window. But amidst all these distractions, old Dr. Sargent pursues in every spare moment the work of his life, which is the promulgation of a great project for saving Ireland. To this hoped for end, like the alchemyst of old, he devotes all the knowledge and energy his 70 years can muster and, apparently, not a little of such cash as accrues through the shop. The plan is nothing less ambitions than the joining of Ireland to Great Britain by the running of a dam-or rather, two dams-across St. George's

TWO DAMS ACROSS THE SEA. In a little den at the back of the shop, lined with encyclopædias, Dr. Sargent detailed his scheme to a Daily Chronicle representative. He did so with an airy cheeriness and confidence that made doubt a sacrilere.

My scheme is simply, said he, to dam George's Channel. Of course, everybody laughs at me-my own family included. They say it is impossible, but then everything was impossible once-steam voyages, airships, the Suez Canal, and a thousand great inventions. I have studied the matter for thirty years, and I am sure it is possible.

My idea would be two dams-one stretching from Holyhead to Greenore, another from St. David's Head, near Fishguard, to Carnsore Point, in county Wexford. The dams would have to be respectively sixty-three miles and fifty-two miles in length. They would have to be a mile in width at the base and a quarter of a mile wide at the ton.

This would afford a fine embankment, over which trains could run, and roads, houses, etc., be built, practically uniting Ireland to England or rather, to Wales. All within the dams would be converted into an inland sea, while canals from Milford Haven to Fishguard and through the Menai Straits would permit the passage of shipping.

The effect of it all would be, Dr. targent gaily continued, to settle once and for all the question, and to develop all the unused resources of Ireland. It would be stupendous work, I know. It would mean millions of tons of stone being dropped into the Welsh mountains, THE ESTIMATED COST.

I have figured out the cost at something over £50,000, 00, and it would take thirty years. The money could be paid back by tells. Think by the way, what a fine motor track it would make round the coasts and over the Channeland what a splendid place for yachts the inland ses would be

. So the old man babbled on about his dream. In the light of his faith difficulties floated away into thin air. The necessity of an Act of Parliament was easily negotiated. I shall just apply to King Edward to be created a marquis, he said, and put a Bill through. Everything would come in useful, you know. Even the obsolete battleships would serve for old iron. Not least. Dr. Bargent has started wha

he hopes will prove an annual and universal guinea subscription, and has had maps and prospectuses printed, and even receipt forms. But, he remarked, you wouldn't believe it. 1 haven't had a single subscription yet! Ha, ha, ha!-and the old fellow laughed with a good humour that had its pathetic side. The probability that supposing Snowdon and Carnedd Liewellyn could be shifted under water by a handy earthquake, Freiand herself-and especially Dublin -might object, never seemed to have entered his head From inquiries, The Daily Chronicle representative learnt that this old dreamer of Brixton is quite a popular character in his way, shrewd and kind-hearted, and inspires local wonderers much as Roger Bacon might have done mediæval neighbours. And, after all, in a few centures' time, when some method of inexpensive mountain-dumping has been invented, who knows but that dam may be the eighth wonder of another world?

It was proposed to follow the wedding with a honeymoon for the five happy couples to extend to St. Louis, but the lateness the crops prevented the members from leaving home at this time.

THE DEETS OF A KING.

The Seculo (Lisbon) states that the commission appointed to inquire into the loans made by the Government to the Royal Family during the reign of King Carlos has now reported that the total amount is £400,000. According to the arrangement made and approved by Parliament last year, the sum, which has now been determined, is to be repaid in twenty annual instalments. This means that out of King Manuel's yearly civil list of £73,000 the amount of £20,000 will have to be deducted to liquidate his father's debts.

BROKEN NECK NOT FATAL.

Edwin G. Ladd, a fireman, on whom an inquest was held by the Southwark coroner last month, broke his neck by falling from a ladder at the brigade headquarters. "I believe there was a similar case of a broken neck some years ago," the coroner remarked.

MR. BOOSEVELT'S ADVENTURES.

Mr. Roosevelt, according to the special correspondents of the New York Press in Africa, gathered ma terial for a thrilling chapter of reminiscences recently, when he engaged in a perilous encounter on Lake Laivasha with more than a dozen hippopotamuses. Starting at 9 s.m. in a small boat rowed by two negroes, Mr. Roosevelt had proceeded to a remote part of the lake, when he was suddenly attacked by "shoal of hippopotamuses." Some of the animals dived beneath the boat, rising underneath it and striking the bottom of the frail craft with their backs. Others swam straight at the boat. The negroes were frantic wit fear. Shouting to them to keep still, proces the story. Mr. Hoosevelt seized his gun and shot in quick succession two of the "hippos, one a cow and one a bull, and frightened the rest away. Finally a launch with a rescue party reached the ex-President and assisted him towing the specimens ashore. KING BOLOMON'S MINES.

The statement made at the Rhodesian dinner that the ancient workers by delving only 50ft into the soil had extracted, it was calculated, between sixty and seventy million pounds worth of gold, throws an interesting light on o pictures which always seemed mysterious if not incredible, remarks the Pall Mall Gazette. When we read how King Sclomon made the utensils of his temple, the snuffers, basons, and so forth, of pure gold, and overlaid rith gold the doors, the laver, the chefubim, and all the hundred and one decorations of that unrivalled edifice, we are apt to wonder where all this gold was obtained. Dr. Karl Peters has proved that the people who delved in the Transvaal and left behind them there some 500 temples, fortifications, and mines. were the Phoenicians. These people we know from other sources "enriched the Kings of the earth," besides "making glorious in the heart of the seas" their own cities of Tyre and Sidon. They had intimate trade relations with Solomon. and so it becomes evident that the phrase, "King Selemen's Mines," is no mere fanciful creation, and that much of the precious metal procured of old between the Zambesi and the ness of the journey.' In Mr. Stevenson's early days the signalmen were actually men signals. They were attired, as the Telegraph reminds us, as the policemen of the period, with dress-coats buttoned up to the throat, white duck trousers, and too hats. They stood at intervals along the line, and performed "with their arms, their worried brains. and two flags" all the duties of the signal-posts by which they were superseded. WINE GROWING AT CHEFOO.

In the Chefoo Trade Report, Mr. F. S. Unwin, Commissioner of Customs, gives the following interesting account of a notable local enter-

Space may be found here for a brief account of the wine-growing enterprise started in Chefoo in the year 1891 and prosecuted in the face of many difficulties with extraordinary patience and perseverance, at a vast outlay of capital, by the Chang Yu Pioneer Wine Company. The Company, a private one, owned mainly by the well known Kwangtung capitalist Mr. Chang Chenshowed that the man had built a house out of | heun and under the local direction of his nephew, fittings which he had purloined from the Mr. Chang Ying tung, commenced operations in antiquated battleship Neptune, which lay in the | 1895 under a Government charter, issued at the instance of the Grand Secretaries Li Hungchang and Wang Wen-shao, primarily with the intention of making wine from the excellent native grape grown in large quantities in the Laichow district, as well as elsewhere in the Chihli, Shantung, and Fengtien provinces. It dissensions broke out amongst the occupants, | was very soon found, however, that the supply and Leterrier was denounced to the authorities. was not only irregular, insufficient, and costly, He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment, but but that the grape itself was deficient in sugar and produced a wine of poor and thin quality. Some vines were then imported from Americs and planted in the company's own vineyard near Chefoo. In 1896 under Baron von Habo, the Austrian expert who manages the business large quantities of different varieties of vines, guaranteed free-but not immune-from disease by the Austrian Government nurseries, were imported and planted. These flourished at first but after some time became infected with phylloxers, the source of which was found to be the first vines imported from America. The company had then to face the prospect of the complete ruin of its enterprise or the costly alternative of gradually replacing every plant by graftings on imported plants of the disease-resisting varieties. The first batch of these was imported from Austria and planted in 1902, since when the process of substitution has gone on steadily, with the result that the bulk of the plants covering the 700 mon (roughly, 120 acres) now under cultivation are immune to the pest. During all these years the vintage has been accumulating and maturing in huge casks in the cellars of the company-the actual stock, consisting of over 20 varieties of red and white still wines, being about 2.000 hectolitres red and 1.000 white. The wines are pronounced by all who have tasted them, including not a few conneisseurs, to be excellent, and much pressure has been brought on the company from various quarters to induce it to sell. Before this is possible. however, the question of casks and bottles, which presents considerable difficulties, has to be solved. So far no wood suitable for casks has been obtainable in eastern markets. There is a glass factory at Poshan, on the railway line between Tsinanfu and Wei-hsien, which turns out a very superior description of glass, but up to the present has not been willing or able to undertake the supply of wine bottles. The Chang Yu Wine Company now possesses 1,000 mon of land on the Chefoo hills but experiences many obstacles in adding to it. Though practically worthless for farming, owners of adiscent land ask prohibitive prices. The results f many years experience show that the climate though occasionally injuriously damp during July and August-and the soil of the district are on the whole suitable to wine growning, and that a vast amount of hill land, otherwise unprofitable, could be made productive if obtainable at a reasonable price. FIGHTING BY "WIRELESS."

SOME OF THE STRIKING FEATURES OF THE GREAT FLEET.

BY ABNOLD WHITH]. If De Huyter or Van Tromp revisited the seens of their triumphy the justaliation of wireless on board the Indomitables would astound the gallant old Dutch sea dogs of a day when ding-dong fighting was the rule from start to finish. In these days when manœuvring for position is more than half the game when favourable or contrary gales exercise no. influence on results, the part played by wireless in the conduct and disposition of squadrons Optional Cargo will be forwarded unless and fleets is of the highest possible importance, especially to the Admiral of the stronger side. To him that hath shall be given.

The wireless room of the Indomitable islelesed not only to the public, but to the ship's company other than the staff told off for wireless duties. When the ship is at soa dispatching and receiving messages the conductor or stay leading from the wireless room to the mast glows with violet light and crackles continuously like a string of thorns on fire. Wireless has made great progress in the Navy during the last two years. The fresh young brains of the torpedo licutements have grappled with the difficulties of interruption and of unfavourable atmospheric conditions. The result is that to-day the Admiralty can talk to Multa or to any ship within a radius of a couple of thousand miles. The Admiral at sea cannot talk back at the Admiralty as for as that, but he has complete control of communications throughout a circle with the diameter of 1,200 miles.

It is whispered that recent wireless discoveries have completely surmounted for naval purposes difficulties still encountered by the commercial companies. The effect of wireless is to turn neval war into chess with the ocean for a board, Dreadnoughts for queens. Invincibles for eastles and bishops, and two old men in upper rooms at their respective Admir-

One of the chief objects of the Invincible class is to give the Commander-in-Chief the each consignment will be sorted out mark by power of finding out what the enemy is doing mark, and delivery can be obtained as soon as without losing a ship. Indomitables are to a fleet what whiskers are to a cat. The eyes of a fleet are its large armoured cruisers, not the small ones-that is why the policy of the Admiralty hitherto has been to build larger cruisers than other nations. If an enemy's craiser of secondary value is scouting she is practically lost if sighted by an armoured cruiser, if the latter is well commanded.

WHAT THE GIANT CRUIS RS DO. The great speed of the Indomitables confers the power of concentrating on the enemy's van, If he turns away it is a great strategical advantage to be able to turn the enemy off the course he is trying to take. The engine-room of the Indomitable is interesting from its small size, low temperature, cleanliness and absence of noise when the machinery is at work. By the system of electric fans, the temperature is little above that of the external air.

Were the fans to stop the thermometer would rise to 150deg. Fuh. Were this cutastrophe to happen the engineer officers, artificers and stokers could not endure longer periods of duty than half an hour at a time. on speed in the Indomitable is a difficult operation, and strains the stamins, and endurance of the whole of the engineering staff, although the oil fuel boilers are fed by turning a tan.

The three chief points to note in the Indomitable are-first, the gunnery power-more than twice as great as that of the pre-Dreadnought battleships; secondly, the high speed that was only equalled by torpedo destroyers before the advent of the present Board of Admiralty; and thirdly, the mysterious and efficient apparatus for the collection and despatch of information from the air.

The Invincible, Inflexible and Indomitable may be distinguished from the Dreadnoughts of foreigners on vessels trading exclusively by the two tripod masts far apart, and the three subroad or opening an agreement at a foreign funnels between them. The Lord Nelson and Agamemnon, now lying astern of the Temeraire, we may give the Pacific Steam Navigation are very powerful vessels carrying four 12-inch Company, who alone employ 1,190 foreigners guns and ten 9.2, with five torpedo tubes and on board their vessels trading on the West argue the point, no horse owner will believe smaller guns. The funnels of the Lord Nelson | Coast of South America Many vessels so | that whips and spurs can be substituted for oats | mounted on high platforms. The target thus return to the United Kingdom at long no amount of stimulants can take the place of presented to the enemy is larger than in ships intervals for overhaul and refit. . . . There good food well digested. When appetite and of the Dreadnought type.

Dreadnought's thickest belt.

IS GERMAN STEEL BETTER? As wireless has its jealously guarded secrets. so has armour plating. It is said that the steel manufactured by Krupp for the German navy is of a higher resisting strength than that worked into British ships. Only the vitals of men-of-war are protected by thick armour. The belt forward is six inches thick, and that aft four inches. ix inches of best Krupp steel is equal to 18 inches of wrought iron.

The quick-firing guns are weapons which can be loaded and discharged with great rapidity. The training of a 6-inch gan crew is a triumph of sportsmanship, and when the thirteen men have learned to act together the gan has been known to reach the target with a hundred cipal ports in the United Kingdom for the years appetite, great weakness, nervousness and Inpound shell eleven times in a minute.

The trained gunners of the Fleet do not consist of individual geniuses, though some men are infinitely better than others in laying the gun, but in acting together like a polo team or a cricket eleven. If sixtythree of the finest seamen gunners in the Navy were placed in a turret of the Lord Nelson, and pitted against a turret's crew picked haphazard, but who had worked together for six months, the latter would win with certainty. Here is one weak point in our Navy. Under smart captain and gunnery lieutenant a battleship reaches a high place in the competitive list of battle practice. At the end of the two vears' commission the men are dispersed, join other ships, and begin gunnery all over again under new officers and with strange mess-mates. A war that broke out at the beginning of the gunnery training season would find Great Britain with perhaps less than half a dezen ships proficient and highly trained in gunnery. Continuity of efficiency could be obtained by maintaining the gunnery unit, and subjecting it to only minute and constant change in the personnel. The gunnery of the Fleet could be consideraly improved by abandoning the practice of breaking up efficient guns' crows at the end of the commission.

TO PROTECT OUR TRADE. The Minotaurs, the Warriors, the Black Princes, and the Drakes are armoured cruisers of great power and high speed, and call for no special remark. The Donegal and the Berwick, however, belonging to the County Class, known by their three very tall funnels, with their fourteen 6 inch-guns in casemates, should be specially noted by Londoners, as they are two of the ships told off to protect their ocean thoroughfares, which are as well defined as Fleet-street. With half the world's tonnage flying the Red Ensign the safety of the trade routes of the world is a question of bread and butter for London. Dreadnoughts and Indomitables are wanted for other purposes than convoy. The day of convoy, indeed, is over, as it is unlikely with speed of about 19 knots.

like large destroyers. They exist to destroy manned in the face of the enemy. the destroyers just as the destroyers exist to destroy torpedo-boats and torpedo-boats exist to complete the vicious circle by destroying battleships which long to destroy each other. The torpedo-boat destroyers, like the torpedoboats, are painted black, because they are intended for night use. The command of a destroyer or torpedo-boat is the making of our young officers, for winter torpedo work in the North Sea is about the most difficult and most disagreeable job in the world. Fifty-seven men are pent up in quarters which on shore would contravene the Housing Act. But the men like the torpede service because the discipline, though strict, is relaxed as regards smoking, uniform and drill. Submarines, like wireless, are official secrets. They are the weapon of the stronger Power, and are the terriers of the Fleet, intended to enter the enemy's port and either force him into the open or sink him at anchor.

ALIENS AND BRITISH SHIPPING:

LORD MUSKERRY in the House of Lords last month called attention to the number of aliens serving in British ships, contending that their presence, especially in the capacity of captain or officer, constituted a menace to the State. He stated that 37,694 aliens were employed in British vessels, or nearly 20 per cent. in proportion to British seamen, and 473 alien captains and masters. This was just 473 too many. The Board of Trade, he understood, among other objections to taking any action, in the matter, took up the attitude that the number of these aliens was small, and that they were of different nationalities, but he could not see what difference that made. One alien master, the subject of a hostile Power, might do incalculable damage. He showed that the number of British captains and officers serving in foreign vessels was infinitesimal. They were almost all to be found in American ships, but they could not obtain a master's certificate without first of all becoming naturalized. Other maritime nations confined questions, and showed that many confidential documents were entrusted to the alien captains of British merchant ships. Much mischief national emergency by entrusting this information to aliens serving in our mercantile marine. been the subject of inquiry before many committees, and the Committee on the Supply and Training of Boy Seamen in 1907 in their report said :- "The employment of a large proportion port cannot well be avoided. As an example belt amidships is an inch thicker than the constant element in the mercantile marine From the return of the seamen employed in be cured by false or temporary stimulants. With regard to the question of the I lost three stone in weight. granting of certificates to foreigners, the actual from obtaining confidential information from British naval authorities in war time, the Board of Trade wrote to the 4 dmiralty asking whether they had any remarks to make, and the Admiralty replied on July 15 last to the effect that care was taken, as far as possible, that such information did not come into the possession of alien masters or officers. Looking to the large any means which would absolutely guard against good health and strength surely follow. the danger of aliens taking advantage of their opportunities to obtain information which might be of value to the enemy. "It may, however, be taken as certain that naval officers will exercise great care in any communication which danger his noble friend anticipated was not so real as he seemed to think. The Marquis of Salisbury said they had to weigh against one another the two aspects of this question. On the one side was our trade. and the proper manning of our ships and on the other side was our national position and the personnel of the merchant service as a reserve for the Navy. All regretted that it should benecessary to include in the merchant service men who were not British subjects. There was no doubt that the information to be derived from British ships in time of war would be very valuable. He thought his noble friend was justified

BRITISH BANK AMALGAMATION.

An announcement of unusual importance in the banking world is contained in circulars issued to the shareholders of the London and County and London and Westminster Banks. intimating that a provisional agreement has WARRANTS OF APPOINTMENT TO been arrived at, subject to the approval of shareholders, for the amalgamation of the two businesses. The principal terms of the agreement are as follow:--

1. The name of the amalgamated bank wil be the "London County and Westminster Bank

2. The susberibed capital will be £14, 000,000, £3,500,000 paid up, in 700,000 shares of £20 each, £5 raid; of which each present holder of one £80 share, £20 paid, in the London and County Banking Company (Limited) will hold four shares, and each present holder of one £100 share, paid, in the London and Westminster Bank (Limited) will hold 2 1-7 shares. This proportion represents the present relative market values of the shares of the two banks. The reserve of the amalgamated undertaking will amount to about £4,250,000, and the combined current and deposit account balances will exceed £70,000,000.

4. The joint managers of the London and Westminster Bank will be associated with the head office manager and country manager of the London and County Banking Company as

USE OF STIMULANTS.

A stimulant can do more than draw on the reserves: it borrows for one hour what must be paid back the next hour. And so it is with men and women; fore we are led to the conclusion that a direction break down and you feel weak, The Lord Nelson and Agamemnon are re- large proportion of the foreigners serving nervous, prostrated-perhaps after an attack of markable for their armour protection. Thus The Times in its annual Not long ago she wrote us :- "In 1902, after a review of trade last January calculated that 12 serious operation, and before I had regained my million tons of British shipping lay idle at the health, I was struck down by a violent attack of close of 1908.
